

Haight About It

Medicine Hat's Good Luck

The happy fortune, which has rewarded the enterprise of Medicine Hat in boring for gas will doubtless have a good effect in encouraging other western towns to go and do likewise. Commenting on the benefits of the well to the Hat the Times says:

"The discovery of a new gas field, as we may perhaps be permitted to call it, away down below the great deposit referred to in a previous issue has set people talking gas from one end of the town to the other. A few words therefore, as to its uses and commercial value will be read with interest at the present time. No other fuel, natural or artificial, has the value or convenience of natural gas. All other fuels require a large amount of labor to fit them for combustion and most of them must be converted into gaseous form before they can be consumed. Natural gas, however, has reached that form, and is in condition to take to itself the oxygen necessary for combustion. The great natural reservoirs require only to be pierced by the drill when the gas comes to the surface with a rush which makes it difficult to manage, and is at once ready to be used as fuel or to become a direct source of power in the gas engine. No preparation is necessary for its combustion and no residue is left.

"As a source of heat, light and power, natural gas is unexcelled from the moment it reaches the consumer at the end of the pipe line. Natural gas is a luxury in the household which when once acquired is most difficult to dispense with. Consumers who have learned to know its value and convenience could not be induced to go back to the grosser methods of wood or coal. The gas needs only to be mixed with the proper amount of air, and to have the combustion started by a naked flame or by an electric spark, when it will appropriate to itself the proper amount of oxygen. As a source of heat it is unrivalled in the household, and as a source of light, even in its crude state, it gives a very fair illumination which is much improved by the use of a proper mantle for the burner. In Medicine Hat nearly all the hotels, stores, restaurants and offices are lighted by the gas from existing wells. We may add that it is used in the Times office and in addition the machinery which prints the paper, etc., is driven by a gas engine which derives its motive power from the natural gas. The gas is cheap, the price charged being only 22 cents per 1000 feet.

"The discovery of this new source of supply will prove of incalculable value to Medicine Hat, as it solves the question of power, and it will be of immense commercial value to the town. A glance at what has been done in the United States opens up vistas of possibilities here which may well make Medicine Hat feel 'good.' The state of Virginia has for several years furnished an increasing quantity of natural gas to Pennsylvania and Ohio, yet there still remain under the dense and arches of its rugged hills great reservoirs of it that have only been sufficiently tested by the drill to prove their existence.

"The value of the natural gas consumed in the United States in 1901 was $17,967,500, which, at 15 cents per 1000 cubic feet is equivalent to 130,460,000,000 cubic feet. If 20,000 cubic feet of natural gas be taken as equal to one ton of coal it would require 2,458,600 tons of coal, valued at $3.20 per ton, to yield the sum of money for which the natural gas is sold. The commercial value of this gas field to Medicine Hat cannot well be estimated, but assuming that this new well is giving a million cubic feet per day, this, if utilized, at the low price of 25 cents per 1000 feet would yield an annual revenue of $91,250.

"As already intimated above, natural gas is unrivalled for cheapness, cleanliness, etc., in domestic use, but its greatest and perhaps most valuable utility lies in the fact that it furnishes a remarkably good and cheap power which can be used in manufacture. Going once more over the border for data we find that in 1901, the natural gas was used in the following manufactures, viz: 109 iron mills (including the famous works at Pennsylvania); two steel works; 219 glass works; and 5121 other establishments. This does not of course include the thousands of persons who use it for domestic purposes.

"Natural gas is easily distributed in pipes to points of consumption many miles distant. For instance the Welland county field in Ontario near Buffalo, furnishes gas to Buffalo, N.Y. No known method is more economical or powerful equals in economy that of the transportation of a gaseous fuel in pipes. In the United States the great natural gas reservoirs are more or less associated with the pools of petroleum found in those areas. We may yet 'strike oil' at Medicine Hat."

Accident on C.P.R.

Regina Standard: A broken rail east of Coulee caused a very serious delay to traffic this morning. His Worship Mayor Laird, who with Mrs. Laird was a passenger on the train, described the trip to a representative of the Standard as follows: "We left Banff on Friday on time, and were headed up at Morse, 75 miles west of Moose Jaw for 15 hours by a freight train being dithered along of us. After this delay we got along all right until we reached the water tank two miles west of Coulee, or nearly opposite Mr. Roe's farm, about five o'clock in the morning. Mrs. Laird and I had gotten up and dressed and I was on the rear platform talking to the porters. Mrs. Laird was sitting on the front platform when the emergency brake was turned on and we could feel the car bumping over the tie. The porters ran into the cars and I followed them naturally thinking that they knew the best place of safety.

"Just as we got into the centre of the car it went over into the ditch and carried the car immediately ahead with it.

"Everyone was thrown, bed clothes and all, in one heap. I crept on my hands and knees and tried to get over to Mrs. Laird. When I arrived there I found that some gentleman had helped her out and that she was not seriously hurt, though badly shaken up. Only one man was seriously hurt and he was a Mr. Chrisp of Winnipeg, who had his head badly bruised, and as a result had to be put under a doctor's care.

"The accident was caused by the engine breaking a rail and though the first cars passed over safely the Pullmans were dithered from it. The engineer applied the emergency brakes immediately on discovering the break."

To the Public

Having sold my dental practice and good will to Drs. Lowther and Robertson, I wish to thank my numerous patients for their patronage in the past and ask them as a matter of personal interest to extend the same to my successors as I consider they have no equals in the West and few superiors anywhere. Dr. Lowther has been associated with me for some time both here and in the East. It is a brilliant college course in one of America's greatest dental schools, if honesty, sobriety and skill count for anything, then I have no hesitation in recommending Drs. Lowther and Robertson to my friends. Sincerely yours,

CANADIAN NORTHERN CONSTRUCTION

Special Correspondence.

D. D. Mann of the Canadian Northern Railway Co. and J. D. McArthur, contractor for the construction of the railway and bridges from Kamack to Edmonton, were in Ottawa on Wednesday, June 15th. (Speaking of construction work on the Canadian Northern Mr. McArthur said that he had 700 teams and 2,000 men at work on the part of the line between Kamack and Battleford, a distance of about 300 miles. Of this distance about 75 miles between Kamack and the South Saskatchewan was graded in broken sections last year. The intention is to complete the grade on this portion of the line as quickly as possible, so as to permit track laying to go on uninterrupted. The track laying outfit has already, or is about to commence work, and track laying will proceed at the rate of from two to three miles a day. The distance from Kamack to the crossing of the South Saskatchewan is about 200 miles. Mr. McCrimmon, who worked at Edmonton last year, is now at work east of the North Saskatchewan near Battleford. As part of the gaps in the grading between Kamack and the South Saskatchewan are completed the gangs will be moved west of Battleford. It is expected that work west of Battleford will be begun in about six weeks. Three large concrete and steel bridges will be constructed, one across the South Saskatchewan and two across the North Saskatchewan, one at the Elbow and one a few miles west of Battleford. The concrete bridge across the South Saskatchewan is completed, and the false work to carry the steel while it is being erected and also to carry the track temporarily is being erected. The steel for the South Saskatchewan bridge at the Elbow is ready for shipment from the bridge works. The North bridge will be erected this season. The railway will cross both rivers on false work. The bridge across the North Saskatchewan west of Battleford will be put in during the coming winter. Every man and team that can be hired is being put on the grading work and every effort will be made to reach Edmonton with the grade this year. If it is not reached this year it certainly will be next year. Supplies, ties and timber for the road from the Elbow to the North branch to Edmonton will be procured as far as possible, at Edmonton.

PARLIAMENT

Ottawa Correspondence:

The budget debate closed at 12.30 this morning with the rejection of Mr. Borden's amendment in favor of adequate protection by a vote of 110 to 52, a majority of 58, the largest majority recorded in favor of the Liberal government since '96.

The debate on Wednesday was carried on by Messrs. Armstrong, of East Linton, Conservative, who discussed the coal-oil duties, Hon. Mr. Brodeur, Minister of Inland Revenue, who spoke at length on the tariff question; and particularly dealt with the increase of the tobacco duties and the encouragement which it gave to the production of Canadian tobacco.

In '96 Canada manufactured 9 1/2 million pounds of foreign leaf and half a million pounds of Canadian leaf. Last year she manufactured seven and a half million pounds of foreign and nearly five million pounds of Domestic leaf.

Messrs. Kemp, of East Toronto, and Donnelly of East Bruce, spoke on the Conservative side, and Hazard, of Prince Edward Island, and Bourassa on the government side.

was sworn in yesterday as a member of the Senate from British Columbia in the place of deceased Senator Reid. Mr. Bostock's appointment to the Senate is one of the most popular and most fitting that have been made. His political success, in '96 in winning the constituency of Yale-Caribou against a large and unwavering Conservative majority, his political conduct and personal character during the parliament of '96, and his identification with the interests of British Columbia at large, and especially of the Interior, make him a most creditable and valuable addition to the Senate, and gives British Columbia an additional representative in that body of whom it may be proud. Owing to financial reverses Mr. Bostock did not contest the constituency in 1900, and, in fact, withdrew from active politics at that time. His present appointment comes to him unsought.

SETTLERS MAY SECURE DRY LOGS

The following order in council was signed on the 30th day of May, 1904.

"Whereas there are at the present time, large tracts of Dominion lands containing dry timber which it is advisable to remove as it is a menace to the green timber, and if allowed to remain on the ground, will either be burnt or decay;

"Therefore the Governor General in council is pleased to order, and it is hereby ordered as follows:

"If the settlers request the Department of the Interior to allow them to cut dry timber upon certain described lands, an inspection thereof shall be made, and if it is considered advisable to allow the timber to be cut, permission shall be given the settlers to cut the same by paying dues at the rate of 25 cents per thousand feet, B.M., such cutting to be done under the immediate supervision of an officer of the said Department."

Formerly dry logs when used for building purposes, were on the same footing as green, that is dues at the rate of $1.50 per thousand feet B.M. were charged.

The contention made by the settlers at Morinville and elsewhere that dry logs when manufactured into lumber did not make good lumber and therefore that the same dues that were paid on green logs should not be paid for dry has been recognized as good and the above order in council passed to meet the case.

Any settlers desiring to have tracts of dry timber inspected should make a request that it be done and the Forest Ranger at Edmonton will report on the matter.

Changes in the Fiscal Situation

Toronto News:

During the last eight years the revenue of Canada has undergone a great and the expenditure a moderate increase. The revenue in 1895-6 was $36,000,000. In 1902-3 it was $66,000,000. Mr. Fielding's estimate for the current year is $71,000,000. The expenditure in 1895-6 was $37,000,000. In 1902-3 it was $51,700,000. For 1903-4 it is expected to be $54,500,000. Since 1895-6 the revenue has nearly doubled and the expenditure has increased by rather less than half. The Minister of Finance has increased his expenditure by seventeen and a half millions, and expects a surplus of sixteen and a half millions.

The method of revenue-raising has not been greatly altered by the Liberal government. Roughly, three-quarters of our public income is obtained by taxation and one quarter comes from other sources. In 1895-6 the proportion was 76 per cent. and 24 per cent. In 1902-3 it was 74 per cent. and 26 per cent. Thus the increase in the sources of the revenue has been general. If anything the taxation is increasing more slowly than the inflow from other sources. The growth of the public income has hardly kept pace with the expansion of our external trade. In 1895-6 the imports and exports amounted to $239,000,000, in 1902-3 they had grown to $467,000,000. The increase in trade was 95 per cent., the increase in revenue was 80 per cent. The increase in expenditure was not quite 40 per cent.

It is interesting to note the use to which the Minister of Finance put the revenue at his disposal. In 1895-6 the revenue and the expenditure were almost identical, there being a deficit of a third of a million. Debt charges and the sinking fund claimed nearly 35 per cent. of the revenue. The collection of revenue required 25 per cent. of the income and outgo, and provincial subsidies, 11.5 per cent. Thus there was left about 25 per cent. free for the other expenditures.

PREPARING THE GROUNDS

The New Sidewalk to the Grounds a Great Convenience. Working Down the Track

The number who turned out to the baseball match at Riverside park Wednesday was probably the largest ever gathered on those grounds to witness a game. Beside the attraction of the match there was also doubtless a desire to see the preparations which are being made for the big fair next week.

One of the most satisfactory alterations in connection with the grounds this year is the new sidewalk along Second street. By the construction of this the council have made it possible to walk from Jasper avenue to the grand stand without leaving the grounds—a fact which will be much appreciated should a shower come on during the fair when the conveyances are all working overtime and to catch a bus means to wait a considerable time.

Beside the men engaged on the new buildings which have been erected a with teams putting the grounds in shape have been busy for several days. The track has been worked down and promises to be in excellent condition when the races begin. Considerable comment was passed on Wednesday evening on the long grass surrounding the baseball diamond. This together with the remainder of the grounds will be mowed and the grass removed before the fair and the diamond rolled down into better shape.

The builders are busy on the new hospital booth where meals will be served on the days of the sports. These are substantial structures and are being built for the future as well as the present.

The exhibition building has been enlarged by the addition of a lean-to in which the displays of poultry and dogs will be made. New pens for the exhibits of horses have been erected along the north fence, thus leaving enlarged accommodation for sheep and other animals in the old pen.

A paddock has been arranged at the southern end of the grand stand where the racers may be taken to be cooled off between heats. This will do away with the necessity of taking them to the stables and will obviate much of the waiting between heats for the horses to be brought out.

MY FRIEND FROM INDIA

Local play-goers who recall the success with which this comedy was presented some three years since will welcome its reappearance on the boards at Robertson hall tonight. As on the previous occasion, it is presented by local talent and the central figures of the play remain in the majority of cases unchanged. On its first presentation here the comedy drew crowded houses for three nights in succession and an equally flattering reception will doubtless be given to-night and tomorrow night.

Following is the cast for the play:

A. Shaver, a victim of circumstances, V. W. Barford.

Ernest Underholt, who has made money out of horses, W. J. McNamara.

Charles, his son, a model young man, Arthur Edwards.

Tom Valentine, Charles' friend, P. C. Kidston.

Jennings, Underholt's servant, B. Russell.

Rev. Jas. Tweedles, the real one, H. B. Dawson.

Bill Finnerty, policeman, Herbert Douglas.

Miss Hayte, fiancée of Charles, Miss Kate Maloney.

Tilly, A German Maid, Edith Protheroe.

ANOTHER BOOMERANG

IN THE DUNDONALD CASE

The Opposition Leader Discredits His Journalistic Supporters and Refers to Only One Charge in His Motion

Bulletin Special Dispatch.

Ottawa, Ont., June 23.—The Dundonald debate was on today, and took a form that was not expected. The opposition have found the question a boomerang. The newspapers indicated an opposition attack on three counts: the dismissal of Dundonald; inefficient administration of the militia department, and political interference of Mr. Fisher.

Borden's motion of censure today dealt with the latter charge only, thereby discrediting the newspaper campaign carried on regarding the other two.

Fisher's defence was vigorous and effective, covering all the points.

On the question of political interference he compared the actions of Dundonald in appointing a major without qualifications, to his own insistence upon a qualified major who also was a Conservative, but who was not one of the family clique who had sought control of the squadron.

The Minister of Militia also dealt with the attack of Dundonald upon the militia administration and made out an excellent case. The debate will close tomorrow.

25,000,000 IN 25 YEARS

Free Press:

Mr. F. M. March, president of the Manitoba Land and Investment Co., is a great believer in the future of the Canadian Northwest, and it is a refreshing and encouraging indication after all the recent ill-judged talk of over-inflation of real estate values, to note that his optimism is of sufficient virility as to lead him to make adequate provision for the transaction of future business on a larger scale than ever previously.

Mr. March is confident of the development of Manitoba and the Northwest, and this confidence is evidenced by the fact that the Manitoba Land and Investment Company have recently moved into their new permanent quarters in the Forum Block, 445 Main street. These offices were formerly occupied by the Bank of British North America; and as at present arranged they constitute the finest and most commodious suite of real estate offices in the city. In conversation with a Free Press representative this morning, as to what his opinion of Canada's future greatness is, he said it was this confidence in the decline of this country, which impelled him to so greatly increase his facilities for doing business.

"I would just like to say," remarked Mr. March, "that this country is only in the infancy of its development. If I were not sure of this I would not arrange to stay here permanently, but I honestly believe, and I think it is a Conservative statement, that Canada, which now has five or six millions of people, will in 25 years have a population of 25 millions. This may sound like a large estimate, but I believe it is considerably under rather than over the mark. In my opinion this country will have an annual average increase of one million souls during the next twenty-five years."

"Is that a wild statement?" asked Mr. March, "Well," he continued, "you must remember that this country has millions upon millions of unutilized agricultural lands and it is now the only undeveloped country in the world where good land is to be had at low prices and immigration will come in ever increasing volume. Then you have got to figure on the natural increase of population, which is a big thing in itself and will become larger every year. If my estimate is analyzed it can easily be seen that it is if anything, rather below what it should be."

Mr. March also spoke of the difference in conditions between this country and the Northwestern States. In the latter, he said, the land is all taken up and a poor man cannot acquire a farm of his own. In the Canadian Northwest, on the other hand, he can not only secure a farm on very easy terms, but his first crop will pay for his land. In illustration of this statement, Mr. March mentioned that around Newdale, where 600,000 bushels of oats were grown last year, that the average oat yield is 75 bushels to the acre and that as high as 125 bushels have been secured. Some of the white oats weigh forty-six pounds to the bushel, and black oats forty-four pounds. The prices received by the farmers ranged from 25 cents to 35 cents a bushel, so that a farmer who bought a quarter section of land around $12 an acre and seeded 100 acres would more than pay for his farm in one crop.

"There is no other country in the world where he can do this," said Mr. March, "but the trouble is to get the farmer in the States to assimilate these facts. When he does realize them he will lose no time in crossing the boundary."

"Then you do not think ten or twelve dollars an acre approaches the maximum price?"

"I should say not. The chances for making money in farm lands are just as good to-day as they were three or four years ago and the man who objects paying the current prices for land will be kicking himself five years hence. He is on a par with the man who four years ago refused to buy present $12 lands at $3."

Turf Matters

Indian Head, Vidette:

Now that we are fairly launched into the racing season of 1904, it may not be out of place for us to call the attention of turf lovers to the regulations as in force in the west.

The chief consideration of the moment, to our mind, in the case with which a "ringer" can be travelled through the country, taking advantage of class regulations and exempt from lawful punishment. I have been done and will probably be done again so long as the thing is neglected by legislative authority. Against a man who chooses to bring a racer who may have registered elsewhere his qualification to enter in the junior classes we have no redress.

The Revised Statutes of Ontario provide for punishment of the offense as the following extract from "An Act to prevent the fraudulent entry of Horses at Exhibitions" will show:—Chapter 204.

"The class to which a horse, colt or filly belongs, for the purpose of entry in such contests of speed, shall be determined by the public performance of such horse, colt or filly in some former, if any, contest or trial of speed, as provided by the rules of the society or association under which the proposed contest is to be conducted." 54v, c53, s 3.

An infringement of the above is punishable, within two years, by a fine of not less than $50 and not more than $200, together with costs, and in cases of non-payment a term of imprisonment not exceeding six months.

Here, the offense is dealt with by a by-law of the American Trotting Association to the extent of ruling off a recognized officer. So far, we have control of the matter, but such flagrant cases of stealing should be provided for by the Western Provincial Legislatures.

With the crowding in of settlement giving added impetus to turf matters and the breeding and importation of high-class stock, a certain protection should be afforded the fosterer of a sport that does much to help the general advance of western importance as well in the business world as in racing circles.

Buffalos Fight To The Death

Three huge blons engaged in a sanguinary battle last Thursday night in the Banff National Park. The result was the loss of one valuable animal and two badly scarred combatants. Keeper Howard Douglas said it was one of the fiercest contests of brute strength ever witnessed in the park. A big four year old bull was attacked in the afternoon by two five and six year old bulls. The battle continued until 9 o'clock the next morning when the object of attack ceased to show signs of life. The infuriated animals, covered with blood, then abandoned the lacerated body of the big bull. Efforts of the attendants to separate the enraged brutes were fruitless. The dead buffalo was gored and trampled into a pulp.

Why Bobrikoff Was Assassinated

Mail and Empire:

Count Bobrikoff's death at the hand of a Finnish patriot is the writing on the wall, and it is for the czar to read. Finland has endured to the uttermost the oppressions which her master has inflicted on her with the stolidity of cattle. Have they reached the limit of their endurance, and is the act of Schumann the sign by which the world may know? Or is it the isolated act of a man of a different mould from his fellows? If the latter be true, then Bobrikoff's assassination will be the worst thing that has happened Finland since 1899; if not, the name of Schumann may rank in history with that of John Sobieski.

To understand the events which have led up to Bobrikoff's assassination it is necessary to glance at a few pages in Finland's history. About the middle of the twelfth century the Swedes conquered the Finns, and from that date down to the middle of the eighteenth century Finland was the scene of many fights between Russia and Sweden. As a result of one of these wars a considerable strip of Finnish territory was ceded to Russia. Gustavus III., in 1771, made a determined effort to recapture what had been lost, but he failed, and 1809 saw a Russian invasion from which Sweden was glad to escape, by surrendering the rest of Finland to the Bear. Then began modern history for Finland. For 750 years this country had been part of Sweden, with the result that the Finns had become in every respect Swedes. Sweden's cession of Finland was not that of a bird of prey which yields a victim to a more powerful robber, but that of the hawk which offers its young to the eagle as the price of peace.

Russia at once began the work of Russanizing these Swedes, and the first step was to make them Finns again. Every inducement was offered them to study the language and revive the customs which had been theirs for centuries before, but this plan was a failure, and Sweden the Finns remained. Russia soon wearied of this subtle diplomacy and abandoned it altogether. If these Swedes would not become Finns, they should be made Russians at once. Under Alexander I., the czar of all the Russias at the time of the acquisition of Finland, the Finns were guaranteed every liberty they had previously enjoyed. How this promise was kept may be judged from the fact that between 1809 and 1863 the Finnish Diet did not meet once. When after 54 years this Parliament did assemble, the Emperor of Russia irradiated promises for the future. The Diet was to be regularly convened, and many reforms were to be introduced. For some years the Diet met more frequently, but as its laws could not become operative without imperial sanction its deliberations were of purely academic interest. For St. Petersburg refused to endorse the notes drawn by Helsinki. The most important of these ineffectual laws was that passed in 1872, which declared for the liberty of the press. One rather amica at the sublime simplicity of the Diet, which expected Russia to encourage a free and outspoken press.

The history of Finland, however, offers new proof of an astonishing fact, which has dumfounded students of political economy many times. A country may have hardly any liberty; its political affairs may be in a wretched condition, and yet it may fairly wallow in prosperity. It may, in effect, be a sort of Strasbourg goose. So it was with Finland. Despite Russian tyranny and unfaithfulness, the Finns grew fat. This was the signal for their undoing. Other parts of the empire became jealous, and in 1899 there began a series of attacks on Russia. These journals persisted in regarding the Finns as pampered favorites, and loudly demanded that any remaining privileges which they possessed be revoked. So persistent and bitter did these assaults become that the Finns were alarmed and appealed to the czar.

who relieved their apprehension by ratifying the ancient constitution. So there for a little quiet on Finland, and the stout citizens breathed easier.

Then came the bolt from the blue sky. In 1898 the czar issued his famous declaration, which at a stroke rendered the constitution so much waste paper. The Diet was deprived of even such slender authority as it had wielded. The Finns were ordered to quadruple the strength of their standing army, which hitherto had served only on Finnish soil. In the future these soldiers were to be like other Russian soldiers, liable to duty anywhere. The term of enlistment was increased from three to five years, with numerous exceptions. In the case of Finns who could read and write the Russian language. In the midst of the consternation which followed this decree came another which made a knowledge of Russian obligatory for all Senators, Governors, and higher officials. As a protest one of the greatest petitions of modern times, signed not only by Finns but by famous scientists and literary men in England, France and Germany, was presented at St. Petersburg, and coldly ignored.

Then gloom settled down on Finland, and casting aside the last pretence, Russia began her work. Russian troops by the thousand were poured into the province, while Finnish soldiers were drafted to the other side of the huge empire. The cities became Russian garrison towns, and behind the troops marched the spies who spread over the land and began their necessary work. Finnish patriots were seized and imprisoned on the slightest pretext. Fair trials were heard of no more. In one year the emigration increased ten-fold. A blight had fallen on the land. Only last year all telephone communication between Finland and Sweden was destroyed, and no disaffected Finns were permitted to cross the border. The gates of escape were closed. The despatch from St. Petersburg tells how one rat has turned on his tormentors.

The Dumping Penalty

Winnipeg Commercial: Some of the better informed business journals of the United States have already admitted that the new Canadian remedy for the dumping evil will prove to be an effective weapon and they seem to feel that the time is rapidly approaching when some of the selfishness and unfairness of the present tariff of their own country will have to be weeded out. Freedom of commerce, they now admit, is the ultimate goal towards which the world is working its way, and the onward steps are being clearly marked by just such enactments as the new Canadian penalty against dumping.

—Polton appeared before I. S. Cowan, J.P., last night, charged with attempted suicide. Owing to his weak condition he was remanded until the 29th. The magistrate recommended that he be taken to his home, provided that a guard can be secured for him. Otherwise he will remain in the cells.

—In accord with summonses issued by Chief Dean, a number of real estate men faced I. S. Cowan, J.P., on Wednesday morning for not having paid their annual license. As their negligence had been due to negotiations with the town for a revision of the license by-law, the cases were adjourned to the 29th. It is understood that if the fees be paid in the meantime no further action will be taken.
